The offender has not complied with the following condition(s) of supervision:

Violation Number	Nature of Noncompliance
-------------------------	--------------------------------

- |   |   |
| 1 | On November 16, 2010, the offender tested positive for Benzoylcegonine (Cocaine Metabolite) following a random drug test administered by Open Door, a substance abuse program and testing center, located in New Brunswick, New Jersey. The urinalysis was confirmed positive by the National Testing Lab on November 19, 2010. The offender denies using cocaine and stated he lives next door to an abandoned house where he believes drugs are used and distributed. He observed baggies of a white powdery substance in the alley way between his house and the abandoned house and attempted to discard the narcotics. |
| 2 | At his sentencing hearing before Your Honor on July 12, 2007, the offender was ordered to pay a $100 special assessment. As of this writing, the offender has not submitted any monetary payment toward this fine despite numerous requests by the undersigned officer.  |

U.S. Probation Officer Action:

The undersigned officer held an adjustment session with the offender, at which time, he was verbally reprimanded for his use of illegal substances. The undersigned advised the offender that based on the laboratory results confirming that his urinalysis tested positive for Benzoylcegonine (Cocaine Metabolite), he had to ingest the illegal substance. Simply touching the illegal substance would not result in a positive urinalysis by the lab. The undersigned again reviewed the offender's special and standard conditions of his supervised release, as imposed by Your Honor on July 12, 2007, and had the offender sign his judgement of conviction. He was also provided with a copy for his records. The offender is also on Code-A-Phone, a random drug testing program, at Open Door located in New Brunswick. He reports to Open Door on a random basis at least three times per month.

The undersigned officer will also monitor any illegal substance use by the offender by administering random drug tests during home and office visits. He was further advised that a violation of supervised release hearing would be scheduled before Your Honor should he submit another positive drug test from this date forward and/or fail to report for drug testing and abide by the standard and special conditions of his supervised release term. The offender was further instructed to satisfy his outstanding $100 special assessment.

Respectfully submitted,
